Online copyright exhaustion in a post-Allposters world
Multiple patent challenges in the USA, Canada, France and the UK
Sports anti-siphoning laws and the controversy of sports broadcasting:
a case study of Pakistan
To keep INN or out
Are the new ‘fair dealing’ provisions an improvement on the previous UK law, and why?
From GRUR Int: German Federal Court of Justice: existence of enabling disclosure is a question of law
From GRUR Int: User rights to photos: copyright as a weapon in e-commerce?
From GRUR Int: Can e-books and other digital works be resold?
Contents

Editorial

Are EU policy-makers fighting the right copyright battles?
Eleonora Rosati .................................................. 651

Current Intelligence

The special mechanism for parallel importation of drugs from new EU Member States
Michele Giannino .................................................. 652

Broad claim construction leads to invalidity of Novartis’s patent for EXELON Alzheimer’s patch
Sebastian Moore and Grace Pead ................................. 653

A second bite of the apple leaves a sour taste
Maeve Lynch and John Colbourn ................................ 655

Trade mark infringement as a proper reason for non-use
Meriem Loudiyi .................................................. 657

Sweet success: ‘Valentine Secret’ not confusing with ‘Victoria’s Secret’, rules Federal Court of Canada
Emir Crowne and Adrian Werkowski ............................ 658

SCRABBLE v SCRAMBLE: Does someone need to have a word with the courts?
Darren Meale .................................................. 659

Jura Origin allowed to proceed to registration: no likelihood of confusion with earlier ‘Origin’ marks
Lindsey Low .................................................. 662

Do trade mark holders need a copyright to deal with trade mark label trafficking in the marketplace?
Jesus Ivan Mora Gonzalez ....................................... 663

Copyright protection for technical drawings in the Commonwealth Caribbean
Eddy Ventose .................................................. 665

Articles

Online copyright exhaustion in a post-Allposters world
Eleonora Rosati .................................................. 673

Multiple patent challenges in the USA, Canada, France and the UK
Christopher Stothers, Jennifer Sklenar, Marc Cohn, and Philippe Oudinot .................................................. 682

Sports anti-siphoning laws and the controversy of sports broadcasting: a case study of Pakistan
Muhammad Zaheer Abbas and Shamreeza Riaz ............... 687

To keep INN or out
Sachin Bindal and Amit Koli .................................... 693

Are the new ‘fair dealing’ provisions an improvement on the previous UK law, and why?
Sabine Jacques .................................................. 699

From GRUR Int.

German Federal Court of Justice: existence of enabling disclosure is a question of law
Matthias Bornhäuser ............................................ 707

User rights to photos: copyright as a weapon in e-commerce?
Carsten Bildhäuser ............................................ 709

Can e-books and other digital works be resold?
Nils Rauer and Diana Ettig .................................... 713
IP in Review

How does IP Impact Economic Development?
Richard Milchior .......................... 717

New treaties, new titles
Phillip Johnson ............................. 721

Software licensing and IP law: opening up a source of uncertainty?
Adrian Aronson-Storrier .................... 722